

Thirty Miners Who Are Cut Off by Fire Must Die in the Flames

McALESTER Okla, Aug 26. —One of the worst mine disasters in the history of this region occurred in Haileyville, fifteen miles east of here, today, when thirty miners were entombed in the

Hailey coal mine No 1, the result of a fierce fire that is believed to have shut off all means of escape

The men are in the lower part of the mine. The fire is burning so fiercely that it was impossible for rescuers to enter the shaft, and it is believed that the entombed men must surely be burned to death. A number of miners working near the opening managed to escape

The fire started at 8:30 o'clock this morning. It appears that barrel of oil caught fire and later exploded, spreading burning oil in all directions. The mine is owned by Dr. D. B. Hailey and is one of the biggest mining properties in the State.

DYNAMITERS' COMPLETE CONFESSION MADE PUBLIC

Knowland Is Unanimously Re-nominated

TRIES TO BURN HIS STEP-DAUGHTERS AGAIN IS HONORED

WERE FIRST TO PLACE POISON IN GALLAGHERS FOOD

John Claudianes, However, Declares That Confession Was Forced From Him by Threats.

If ever a vile and ingenuous plot against the life and property of a human being was conceived by his fellowman it is that described by Detective William T. Burns in his testimony before the Alameda county grand jury against John and Peter Claudianes, now held in the county jail, and Felix Paudevers, alleged inventor of fiendish schemes against society, who is still a fugitive at large.

CONSPIRACY LAID BARE

The transcript of the testimony taken before the inquisitorial body of Alameda county truly rocks with some of the most diabolical designs upon human life ever conceived in a criminal mind. That Big Jim Gallagher and his family escaped unscathed of all of the various plots is only remarkable. The confession of Harry Orchard piles into insignificance beside the startling story told by John and Peter Claudianes to the detectives of District Attorney Langdon's office.

WERE TO POISON FOOD

The plots against Gallagher, his family and the friends living in his house were according to the testimony of John and Peter Claudianes, as conceived entirely with the idea of getting Gallagher out of the way.

The fact is, therefore, as alleged to have spent days in perfecting his criminal designs before calling upon John and Peter Claudianes to help him in the execution of them. Several of his plots appear absolutely original and unique in the history of crime. His first suggestion to Claudianes was to burn the building place at which Gallagher took his meals, secure a position as cook and poison the ex-supervisor's food. This being disclosed by the prospective criminal, Paudevers suggested that a quantity of gunpowder be secured and after being saturated with a deadly poison with which he was familiar should be shot into Gallagher's face with a sling such as was used by David against Goliath the Philistine.

ANOTHER DESPERATE DESIGN

After the first proposal Paudevers set about with a powerful try to accomplish the death of Gallagher. On the 11th of August, Peter Claudianes declares that Paudevers is then furnished him with $10 for his expenses to him and to tell him to get up a gallows on a tree as soon as possible. At the same time he then to throw the baseball into the sand

For the fourth time Congressman

Joseph Russell Knowland of Alameda was unanimously nominated today as

Republican candidate for representative of the third congressional district at Washington, by the convention of his district, which was held in Hovey hall.

This is the position in which Mr. Knowland has, for two full terms and in short term, faithfully ably and acceptably served the people of this district, his success being demonstrated by work done for the district such as it has never been done before by the generous vote he has received from his constituents throughout the district comprising the counties of Alameda, Contra Costa and Solano and the additional fact that no other candidate experienced a desire to enter the lists with him for the nomination.

NAMED BY TISDALE

The nominating speech was made by Dr. C. J. Tisdale of Alameda and in it ardent appreciation was expressed for the personality of Mr. Knowland, his ability and integrity, his devotion to the principles of the Republican party and to duty and the success which had attended his efforts as a member of the national house of representatives at Washington.

Mr. Knowland accepted the nomination in a modest speech which was frequently interrupted with applause.

OPENING DELAYED

The convention was set for 11 o'clock,

but owing to the desire of the delegates to indulge in social conversation it was delayed minutes after the hour before

Chairman Tisdale of the Republican

Committee of the Third Congressional

During the assembling of the dele-

WILD CHEERS FOR KNOWLAND DURING SPEECH

Congressman's Career One of Achievement

One of the Youngest Men Ever Elected to the National Legislature, He Forced His Way to a Commanding Position.

Joseph Russell Knowland's entire life has been spent in the immediate community, and it is an open book. He was born in the city of Alameda August 5, 1873. He comes from sturdy American stock; his father, Joseph Knowland, being one of the pioneers of California who has had much to do with developing the great lumber interests of the coast. He was educated in the public schools of his native city and at the University of the Pacific, and after attaining his majority became interested with his father in extensive lumber and shipping interests and in banking.

Began His Public Career

In 1898, at the age of 25, he entered upon a public career, being elected to the Assembly of the State Legislature. He was re-elected two years later, and in 1902 he was elected to the State Senate. He served one session in that body, when a vacancy occurred in the representation from this district, when a vacancy occurred in the representation from this district in the lower house of Congress through the appointment of the Hon. Victor H. Metcalf to the Cabinet of President Roosevelt.

Though young in years, Mr. Knowland had rendered such a record in the State legislature that, which he had filled that he was generally recognized as the proper man to fill the vacancy, and his election to the partial term and for the succeeding full term followed. He was re-elected to the Sixtieth Congress, and in the recent primaries though a bitter factional contest was waged for control of his county, the high regard in which he was held and the necessity of retaining him to represent this district in Congress was so universally recognized that no opposition to his candidacy was made. Something of his popularity is attested in the election of 1900, when he received 1,100 votes in a majority of 18,733 over all competitors.

Has a Splendid Record

As a State legislator, Mr. Knowland at the outset evinced the habits of industry, research and painstaking care that are so essential to effective public service. His thorough grasp of public affairs, his genuine interest in the welfare and conduct of his constituents, and his bearing almost in the eyes of one of the leading members of the Legislature. In some of the fierce controversies that raged in either career he remained steadfast in his convictions, though with such decided moderation and moderation that none of the acrimonies that ensued was ever so far removed.

Mr. Knowland entered the National Congress in the year of his 26th birthday, considered young. He was a very creditable member, with the mark of youth upon him. He brought to bear all his powers of concentration, as well as energy, and his sympathies with us in measure to the extent that it was necessary to add that this is a successor in the field of politics, and to him belongs the distinction of having made a very creditable record in the Senate and whose service is confined upon the floor of an ancestral deg-

Won a Great Victory

Great credit can be given him, notwithstanding the construction of two vessels for the Navy Yard, chosen to be built at Mare Island. This was the beginning of the effort to build government ships at the Coast Guard Yard. Powerful influences helped defeat the bill, under this appropriation, and the young member from the Third District did all he could to the best of his ability to withstand these influences. He found the way blocked by a powerful naval and military clique, and even the Navy Department itself was aiding to the effort to show how it could not be done. It was held that nothing more than a vessel of $1,000,000 would be possible, the construction of such a vessel, the Congressmen Knowland, was able to prevail, securing an appropriation of $15,000 for the further equipment of the yard and finally carried the measure by a vote of 100 to 27, against an adverse report from the Committee on Naval Affairs and the negative opinion on the floor of the House of the chairman of that committee. One of the most striking qualities of Mare Island Navy Yard that resulted in this victory is the instant prevailing on which the visitor will see on the stocks decked at that it attained its

Worked for Oakland Harbor

This achievement in one so new in the field attracted little attention, and at the end of his first term he forced himself back to the first session Congressmen Knowland obtained an appropriation of $1,000,000 for Oakland Harbor improvement, which was the largest obtained in any California port at that session.

In the first session of the Fifty-ninth Congress the matter of constructing a coil for the Mare Island Navy Yard was fought over again. Although the money for the coil had been voted to early before, and the objection to it had been raised by the chairman of the naval committee, the majority of the members were found to block the work.

Again Secured Appropriation

He then secured the Navy Yard in his annual report that it would be impossible to construct these vessels at any yards within the limits of cost allowed by the appropriation. But it remained for Congressman Knowland to get the public in possession of the fact that numerous alterations and additions had been made to the plan until the vessels could not be built in the existing shipyards, but transports would be required to bring them to the coast carrying ships, but transports and supplies would be well. Then it was increased and double bottomed added. They could not be built at private yards on the first estimate, and they further disclosed that private shipbuilding firms had been asked to submit bids for the hope of proving that private yards could construct the vessels within the contracts, but disclosed that these yards were to obtain the contracts, they had not been asked to do so, and the great and the bids were submitted. Through the greatest efforts of Congressman Knowland, an additional appropriation of $100,000 was made to meet the increased cost resulting from the changed plans.

Had Unanswerable Argument

The chair of the Committee on Naval Affairs at that meeting had informed the House Committee on Naval Affairs that notwithstanding the appropriation of $1,000,000 for the latter equipment at Mare Island the yard was still not prepared to build the $1,000,000 which was necessary to bring it up to an effective tonnage. He then immediately, after the Chairman of the Committee at Mare Island is to the contrary, and without having had the time to do so, he called the committee to a hearing, and the information was fully furnished the committee by Knowland, who also wrote to the head of the Bureau of Construction, inquiring the purpose for which the additional $100,000 was required. The reply was vague, closing with the statement that the Bureau had not asked for the additional sum.

Broke Down the Opposition

This history is given because it has great significance in breaking down an influence that has been trying to prevent government work being done in government yards. The influence is only sprung from a powerful lobby, but well entrenched in both branches of Congress, in the amount of their undivided spirit even in the Bureau of Naval Construction as well as other offices, and the last session the sum of $1,000,000 was appropriated by the Congress at another. The result and at this should be understood, is the growing importance of Pacific Coast affairs, and the rapidly increasing need of the best possible equipment to care for the navy at sea. It can be seen that increasing the efficiency of the chief naval station of the Pacific is a patriotic service. It would have been commendable with only natural obstacles in the way, such as opposition from sections that do not appreciate the real value of naval efficiency, but having such obstacles as those of the Bureau of Construction, well entrenched in the department that is concerned, it was highly commendable. Congressman Knowland modestly denies the entire credit for this achievement and points out that Senators Perkins and Flint and a majority of the California delegation stood behind him loyally with their votes and influence.

His Record of Achievement

The improvement of Oakland harbor is a matter of the greatest importance to the community bordering it, and those commercially contiguous. The record of his achievements as to this great improvement is extremely creditable. During his first session, completing the term of his predecessor, the sum of $3,000,000 was appropriated, that being the largest amount ever at that session for any California project. During the second session of the Fifty-ninth Congress over half a million of dollars were secured. The exact figures are $1,500,000. The largest appropriation obtained for any harbor improvement at that session was the largest ever obtained for Oakland Harbor. It was notable, however, that the Oakland Chamber of Commerce and other local commercial bodies urged for the work. It is certainly unusual for a member of Congress to obtain as much for a public improvement as the commercial bodies, speaking for the communities interested think it ought to have.

Bill for the Resurveys

All the work called for on the Oakland Harbor project by surveys to date have probably been made, and at the last session which was the first of the Sixtieth Congress Congressman Knowland introduced a bill for a resurvey of the harbor to meet the new demands of increased commerce. Former surveys were calculated to meet the commercial require-

HON. JOSEPH RUSSELL KNOWLAND
Renominated Today for Member of Congress From the Third District.

Accepts Nomination For the Fourth Time

Popular Congressman Declares That He Would Rather Be Retired to Private Life Than Be Untrue to Loyal Friends.

Mr. Knowland's speech in accepting the nomination was as follows:

"Mr. Chairman and Gentlemen of the Convention:

"For the third time I appear before the Republican convention of the Third California District to accept, through the duly accredited representatives of the party, the nomination for Congress. I endorse the platform of this convention. During the four sessions that I have represented this district at Washington, each succeeding year has more strongly impressed me with the responsibilities of the office, and I have also learned by experience that to meet with any degree of success a member of Congress must devote practically his entire time to the public service both during sessions and between sessions is well. This I have conscientiously endeavored to do, necessarily requiring sacrifices in other directions.

Record Open for Inspection

"Upon this occasion it would be in poor taste to boast of accomplishments, but I cannot refrain from giving expression to a feeling of satisfaction derived from a consciousness that I can review a public service of ten years, including six years in the assembly and senate of the California Legislature, and four years in the Congress of the United States, and challenge any individual to point to a single vote, or specify one public act, that reflects upon my record as a representative of the people. (Applause.)

Friends Have Come First

"Perhaps I might have been more politic at times had I selfishly refrained from assisting friends ambitions for preferment, but I have never knowingly advanced the nomination of a candidate whose honesty could be questioned or whose qualifications failed to measure up to the office. I would refer to be relegated to private life rather than attain even higher honors at the sacrifice of loyal friends. (Applause.)

"I accept this nomination as I have accepted every previous nomination owing allegiance to no corporation, interest or individual. (Applause.) Throughout my political career I have refrained from "rascism," straining to accord to every corporation and interest which has likewise been my policy toward every individual—that to which they are in all fairness entitled, and no corporation or no interest has ever had the temerity to request of me more than thus.

Interested in the Harbor

I am deeply interested in the continued improvement and development of Oakland Harbor, fully appreciating the growing importance of this waterway. The last government survey was made in 1900 and the money now being expended by the Government is in accordance with the projects recommended at that time by the Board of Engineers. In 1900 the total population of Alameda county was but 130,197 while today this has more than doubled, 350,000 being a conservative estimate. Oakland then contained a population of 66,960, which has increased to 237,000.

"This increased population has carried with it a corresponding development of commerce and manufacturing in Oakland and throughout the county, emphasizing the necessity of a re-survey by the government looking to a recommendation for a new project calling for an additional depth and width of channel to meet present and future requirements. I shall press a bill before the House for a re-survey by the government.

Will Fight for Mare Island

"The fight for the Mare Island Navy Yard will be continued. I have learned through experience that an attack upon the yard can be expected each session, being growing so accustomed to these attacks that it would seem unnatural if opposition was not encountered. So far no battle has been lost and the friends of the yard have ceased to fear the assaults. (Applause.)

"I favor the enactment of a direct primary law, having full confidence in the ability of the people to directly nominate capable officials without the intermediate political convention with its trades and manipulations.

"I shall if elected support, as I have in the past, the policies of Theodore Roosevelt, placing my best efforts toward making the administration of the next President of the United States, William H. Taft (applause and cheers), as successful and as popular with the people as that of my predecessor. Gentlemen, I thank you." (Prolonged applause)

WHAT THE PAPERS OF THE STATE SAY ABOUT THE POPULAR SENIOR SENATOR

WHAT PERKINS HAS DONE IN THE SENATE

During His Fifteen Years' Service He Has Only Missed Four Days From His Seat in the Senate.

Senator George C. Perkins is a candidate for re-election to the United States Senate and the indications are that he will be chosen at the next session of the Legislature to continue the good work he is doing for this coast.

At present there is not an open candidate against Senator Perkins. He is being endorsed in all sections of California and it is not unlikely that he will be elected without opposition.

When Senator Perkins first went to the Senate in 1893 he found it was impossible to enlist an apprentice in the navy without first sending him to the naval training station in Rhode Island to pass the physical and mental examination for admission. As only about 38 per cent of the applicants are successful in passing the physical examination very few could afford to take the risk of the trip.

NAVAL TRAINING SCHOOL.

Impressed with the great disadvantage under which the Pacific Coast labored, at his first session in Congress he introduced a bill to establish a naval training station on Yerba Buena, or Goat Island, and it has now been in operation for many years, and thousands of young men, apprentices, landsmen and others, have been enlisted and given a course of nautical training and they now man our ships of the navy. At the same session of Congress he introduced a bill, which also became a law, providing for the re-building of Commodore Farragut's historic ship Hartford, which at that time was a useless old hulk at Mare Island.

FRIEND OF MARE ISLAND.

Senator Perkins has always been a friend of the Mare Island Navy Yard. Elected in 1893 a member of the Committee on Naval Affairs, he has since worked assiduously for the improvement of that yard, securing appropriations for the new dry docks, new machine shops, new officers' houses, marine hospital, the building of tugboats, naval colliers and other vessels. He also secured the establishment of a coaling station for naval vessels at California City in San Francisco Bay and another one at San Diego.

SECURED LIGHTSHIPS.

There was not a single lightship on the coast in 1893, when Senator Perkins entered Congress. Since that time eleven lightships have been constructed and are now in service on the Pacific Coast, the first being anchored on the bar at the entrance of San Francisco Bay. A large number of lighthouses, life saving stations, wireless telegraph stations, buoys and other aids to navigation, including several revenue cutters, have been provided for by the appropriations for the same being first introduced in the Senate and by the efforts of Senator Perkins passed by that body and concurred in by the House of Representatives.

GREAT WORK FOR STATE.

All measures affecting the interests of California, especially in the improvement of San Diego, Eureka, Oakland and other harbors; breakwaters at the port of San Pedro and San Luis Obispo, and improvements to rivers and harbors in California have had his hearty support and the result has been that our State has received larger appropriations proportionately from the federal government than any other State in the Union. During the Fifty-ninth Congress more money for these public purposes was appropriated for California than the total amount to the three great States of New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

Public buildings in some of the principal towns and cities of California, especially the department of justice and postoffice building, custom-house and military depot at Fort Mason in San Francisco are measures which he was enabled to materially assist and advance by reason of the important positions which he holds upon the committees on appropriations, commerce, fortifications and naval affairs.

HELPED THE FARMERS.

As a member of the committee on agriculture, Senator Perkins was enabled to render valuable service in securing appropriations for investigating diseases of the fruit trees and grape vine and the establishment of experimental stations, forest preservation and reforestation, irrigation and reclamation work, and the weather bureau, which has been of so much benefit both to commerce and agriculture. As a member of the committee on fisheries he has assisted in establishing the fish hatchery stations in our State and securing appropriations for their support.

BAY FORTIFICATIONS.

Senator Perkins is chairman of the sub-committee on fortifications and armament in the Senate. It is a great measure due to his efforts that the entrance to San Francisco Bay is fortified second to no other city in the Union. The fortifications and torpedo stations both on the north and south shores of the entrance to the bay are pronounced by military experts to be the best of their kind, and San Francisco to be the best fortified city in the country. The barracks, hospital and improvements at the Presidio and the government quarantine station on Angel Island are the results of amendments which were presented by him in the Senate and by his efforts included in the different appropriation bills that were considered by the committee of which he is a member.

PENSION WORK.

Many thousands of old soldiers will bear testimony as to his willingness to aid them by special congressional acts. Pension cases by the hundreds and thousands have been brought to the attention of the Bureau of Pensions and taken from pigeons for adjudication; thus securing to our old soldiers, their widows and orphans, pensions and increased pensions to which they were justly entitled.

When the Dingley tariff act was under consideration by Congress it was largely through the efforts of Senator Perkins that the present high rates of tariff on California's products—citrus and deciduous fruits, raisins, currants, livestock, wool and hundreds of other articles—were secured. And when the tariff is revised at the next Congress it can be assured that Senator Perkins' aid will be most necessary in protecting our labor and industries from the cheap competition of coolie and peon labor.

ON MANY COMMITTEES.

No one who has not been a member of Congress can realize the advantages a representative has who is a member of the controlling committees which consider and provide for appropriations for internal improvements. Senator Perkins is a member of the following committees in the United States Senate:

Civil Service and Retrenchment; chairman.
Sub-Committee on Fortification; chairman.

Agriculture and Forestry.

Appropriations.

Commerce.

Fisheries.

Forest Reservations and the Protection of Game.

Naval Affairs.

And will become chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs when Congress convenes next December.

During the fifteen years Senator Perkins has been a member of Congress he has only been absent from his seat six days when the Senate was in session, and this was caused by illness.

SENATOR PERKINS REPLIES TO THE MENDACIOUS ATTACKS OF ENEMIES

Senator George C. Perkins recently replied through the columns of THE TRIBUNE to the mendacious attacks made upon him. His statement is as follows:

"I have seen the editorial in THE OAKLAND TRIBUNE entitled 'Senator Perkins Mendaciously Attacked.' The facts therein are correct in every respect, particularly so far as the refutation of the charge of my subservience to any corporate or individual interest as against the public welfare. I would not by my vote or voice do any railroad company or other corporation an injustice any sooner than I would the humblest citizen in the land, and I have sufficient confidence in my sense of justice and integrity to believe that I would not, to secure corporation support or influence, favor them in any measure which I did not believe to be just and right, and to which they were fairly entitled.

NO AID FROM CORPORATIONS.

"I have not, to my knowledge, ever received, directly or indirectly, financial aid or one dollar's contribution from any corporation or company to aid in my election; which is, I think, more than some people who hold high political positions can say. In other words, I think I am so constituted that I can sit upon a jury, as it were, and act without fear or favor as an impartial judge in cases involving railroads, trusts, or corporations of any kind, or private individuals, and I challenge any one to truthfully say that during the many years I have been in public life, either as State Senator, Governor, or in Congress, I have taken official action or cast a vote that I did not at the time believe to be for the best welfare of our country, and especially for the people of the State of California, whom I have the honor in part to represent in the United States Senate.

CANDIDATE FOR RE-ELECTION.

"In submitting my name as a candidate for re-election I only ask in all fairness to be judged by my official record since I have been in public life. As you are aware, every vote in Congress is recorded in the Congressional Record, and by an examination of that official record during my term as Senator, it will be seen that my name is recorded either for or against every measure that has been considered. I have never evaded a vote, either viva voce or on roll call, and during the fifteen years I have been in Congress I have only been absent four days when the Senate was in session, and this absence was caused by sickness. Therefore, my critics ought to do me the justice to refer to my record and criticize my official acts in the Senate or its committees by which they may show, if they can, that my action in the premises has not always been in the interests of the people.

REFERS TO CRITICISM.

"Referring to the charge of certain unfriendly periodicals or organs of rival candidates that I represent corporate interests instead of the whole people, it may not be improper for me to state that in the three times I have been elected to the Senate, a majority of the Republican nominees for the State Legislature voluntarily declared themselves to be in my favor, or were instructed by the conventions which nominated them to vote for me, if they were elected. I considered, therefore, that I was the only Republican nominee for United States Senator at that time before the people, and I made the campaign on those lines and received the endorsement of the people at the ballot-box through their representatives elected to our State Legislature.

GOOD WORK ACCOMPLISHED.

"If, by reason of my position on influential committees in the Senate, I have been able to materially assist in securing Congressional recognition and aid in developing the material resources of our State and promoting her commercial, manufacturing and maritime interests and assisting in obtaining appropriations for river and harbor improvements, aids to navigation, and for fortifications, military posts and navy yards, it would be unbecoming of me to make special mention of them. I will, however, venture to refer to some of the local interests of Alameda county which I have strongly advocated, while in the State Senate, as Governor, and since I have been in Congress. I have, in a degree at least, been instrumental in securing appropriations for the improvement of Oakland harbor and for our various national and State institutions located in Alameda county. I introduced and passed first through the Senate the bill for the public building in Oakland,

FOR THE UNIVERSITY.

"I am also author of the bill creating the naval training station and the depot for light-house supplies on Yerba Buena Island, which are within the jurisdiction of Alameda county. While a member of the California State Senate I was the only member of the finance committee to make the minority report which recommended and secured the first State appropriation for the support of our State University at Berkeley. Also, I think Professor Wilkinson, superintendent of the Institute for the Deaf, Dumb and Blind in Berkeley, will bear testimony that had it not been for my efforts as chairman of the finance committee in the California State Senate, the appropriation for the erection of the splendid buildings of the institution over which he has with such great ability presided for these many years would have been deferred for several years.

GIVES SALARY AWAY.

"But I will not weary you by enumerating the hundreds of other successful efforts I have made—and which were simply in the line of my duty. I do not ask or wish my election to be furthered by the people of my State unless my record in every respect will warrant their confidence in my integrity and patriotism. The position of United States Senator, representing the great State of California in the United States Senate, is greatly to be desired, and it is a most laudable ambition in any one to aspire to this high place. To me it is only one of honor (as I give all of my official salary to churches and for charitable and benevolent purposes), and it can bring me no honor or credit unless I am honorably elected and honorably and satisfactorily perform my duty toward the whole people of the State who have so often honored me with their confidence."

RACE PROBLEM MUST BE SOLVED

Los Angeles Authorities Face Delicate Questions Involving Japs and Negroes.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 26.—The authorities of Los Angeles county have within twenty-four hours been called upon to take action in two problems involving race sentiment. The president of the Southeast Improvement Association has been authorized to request the city board of education to provide for the erection of an additional school building for the accommodation of the pupils of a district which is inhabited almost exclusively by negro families, and while specific denial has been made that any action is taken because of color it is admitted that the belief is entertained that the negro pupils would profit by a separate school.

JAPANESE QUESTION.

The police commission of this city is seeking the solution to a question which has arisen through an ordinance which requires all restaurant keepers who serve liquor to pay a license of $60 per month. Forty Japanese restaurants, which have sprung into existence recently, are admittedly unable to pay any such license, and the commission must decide whether or not the right to sell liquor can be granted the Japanese at a lower rate than is accorded the white proprietors. The commission is expected to consider the reduction of the license fee for Japanese to $20 a month.

Two-Cent Fare Law Cuts Railroad's Revenue.

CHICAGO, Aug. 26.—On increase of 12 per cent in the number of passengers carried and a decrease of 8 per cent on the earnings are the net results to the Chicago & Alton Railroad for twelve months' operation under the two-cent fare law, according to figures made public yesterday by Walter Boss, traffic manager of the road. The Alton is the first road to complete figures showing the effect of the new law for the year.

The figures are for the year ending June 30, 1908, and show that 386,765 more passengers were carried than in the previous fiscal year. For the year just past the number of tickets sold was 3,127,852, compared with 3,061,116 during the previous year. The figures for comparative earnings show a decrease in revenue of $265,783.

DESIRE TO FORCE THE BUILDING OF RAILROAD

MARSHFIELD, Ore., Aug. 26.—Before a large assemblage of business men, Governor Chamberlain advocated that the full power of the State be used to compel the building of a railroad into the Coos Bay country by existing railroads and failing in that, the Governor suggested that the people of the State take the matter into their own hands and the initiative and referendum amend the State constitution so as to give the State authority either to build or guarantee the bonds of some company who will do so.

ROBS OFFICERS IN POLICE STATION

Queen of Pickpockets Also Steals Valuable of Constable While on Way to Jail.

RENO, Nev., Aug. 26.—After cleverly robbing a Sparks bartender of $90 and two officers, who assisted in arresting her, of a valuable pin and a gold ring, Irene Hawley, alias Irene Duff, known throughout the United States as the "queen of pickpockets," was arrested Monday night, after an exciting chase in which eight policemen were engaged.

The theft was reported to Constable Malby of Sparks and he came to Reno and arrested the woman. While taking her to Sparks in a car, he noticed her name and address on a silk slip. He stopped the car, and while he was searching for his valables, the woman slipped off and jumped into an automobile standing by and started for Sparks at full speed. Deputy Sheriff Maxwell was in Sparks and, hearing of the runaway, pursued an automobile and started in pursuit, accompanied by Captain Cade and Officer Berry.

STEALS IN JAIL.

The officers met the speeding woman, whereupon she had the chauffeur turn for Sparks again. While going at full speed she jumped into a pond, thoroughly soaking herself, and raising her head, seized the officers and tried to run away. The officers followed, their number added to by five other policemen. They surrounded the place, where she was quickly captured and turned over to Maxwell.

While in the police station undergoing a search, she slipped a diamond ring from the finger of an officer, but it fell from her hand to the floor.

SENIOR SENATOR IDEAL MAN FOR THE OFFICE

San Francisco Argonaut Declares That He Can Serve the People Better Than Any Other Man.

(SAN FRANCISCO ARGONAUT, AUGUST 22)

The Argonaut would like to see the Pacific States represented in the Senate of the United States by men of the very highest and broadest capability. It would like to see a group of Websters, Clays and Blaines commanding by their talent the admiration and approval of the country and in reasonable and worthy ways dominating legislation. Particularly, the Argonaut would like to see California magnificently represented in the Senate; we would like it if we had in the Senate a supreme man capable of declaring the voice of the Pacific West not only with respect to our immediate affairs, but in relation to those vast interests which are arising in the new world of the Pacific ocean. If anybody can point to an available man, competent by his character and his talents, by the possession of public confidence and by the eagerness of his individual force, to meet these requirements, the Argonaut will gladly give him such support as it may, without respect to the color of his hair or to his own private likes or dislikes. Name the man big enough and we will venture so far as to pledge him a very active and earnest support.

NO SUCH MAN.

Very frankly let us say that we know of no such man. Nor have we heard of anybody else who knows such a man. Those who are opposing the re-election of Senator Perkins do so upon purely negative and personal grounds. They don't like Perkins for some reason or for no reason; and, therefore, they object to him. They wish to substitute for him not so much a superior man as some other man. The weakness of their position is instantly manifest when they are asked to name somebody in Mr. Perkins' place. Pardoe, a weak creature of essentially feminine mind; Spreckels, an ignoramus known alike for his rapidity and his arrogance and commended only by his money; Metcalf, an excellent man with no qualifications superior to those of Mr. Perkins—these are the names we most commonly hear. What could possibly be gained to California by the substitution of any one of these for our present senior Senator? From any rational standpoint Pardoe and Spreckels are unthinkable. The election of either, if it were possible—which, please be to God, it is not—would simply be to put vanity, insufficiency and inexpérience in the place of expert and proved working capacity.

METCALF NO MAN.

Mr. Metcalf, a man of distinctly better type, likewise a man of wide acquaintance at Washington, would come to senatorial duties as a new man with inside senatorial relations to be established. It would take him ten years at least to get himself equal to the position in which Mr. Perkins stands by virtue of long service and through acquaintance in combination with industry and excellent working abilities. In sending Mr. Metcalf to the Senate we would not get the supreme gifts above referred to; we would not give to the Pacific Coast or to California a stronger personality or a larger voice than she has today. We would simply be substituting one excellent and highly respectable man for another. It would be a change without reason or justification in high motives or in any motive excepting those which rest upon mere personal motives in relation to public affairs.

PERKINS IS PRACTICAL.

Mr. Perkins, as we have said before, makes no pretensions as a profound, original statesman. He is essentially a practical man and his work in the Senate is, above all else, on practical lines. At the same time he is a very intelligent man, a man of wide experience in affairs and familiar with the general obligations and operations of government. He is a man of cooperative mind and of genial manners, and therefore commands respect and friendship in the Senate and out of it. He is an untiring worker, sparing himself at no point where the interests of the State or the country at large are concerned. He stands among the little group of Senators—only eight or ten all told—who enjoy a special prestige and influence through long service. His committee assignments are the best and have been especially chosen with respect to legislation affecting Californian interests. In brief, Mr. Perkins, while not a great statesman and while making no pretensions to that character, is a highly practical and useful man in the Senate. He stands well not only with this administration, but with that which is to come, and his capacity for the accomplishment of general legislative purposes is large.

NEW ADMINISTRATION.

We are about to enter upon a new administration deal at Washington. Among other things, the tariff is to be revised. The material interests of California are largely bound up in the tariff scheme. Would it be wise from any point of view in such a crisis to turn out an experienced and faithful man thoroughly acquainted with his work and so placed as to be of great service to the State, and to submit to for him a new man without senatorial experience, and therefore without special prestige or influence in relation to senatorial duties? The Argonaut thinks not. It thinks we would make a tremendous practical mistake at this time to retire Mr. Perkins and to send in his place another man who could not possibly hope for years to come to command the position now held by Mr. Perkins. It is, of course, possible that there are men among us whose talents are great enough to offset Mr. Perkins' many and manifest advantages. But there is nobody of this type in sight.

UNITED STATES SENATOR PERKINS IS THE RIGHT MAN IN THE RIGHT PLACE

WHAT NEW YORK HAS TO SAY OF PERKINS

Declares That He Is a Conservative Man and Will Look Well After the Interests of the West.

(NEW YORK TRIBUNE, AUGUST 10.)

WASHINGTON Aug 9.—With Senator Perkins as chairman of the Senate Committee on Naval Affairs, all concede he will become through the committee changes which will result from the death of Senator Allison, the Pacific Coast will have a position of advantage, and his probable advancement is favorably accepted by those who regard recent developments in the Pacific as nature to render necessary the greatest watchfulness in that quarter. While the western coast has generally had representation on this important Senate committee, the place at the head of it has never been awarded this section.

IMPORTANT OFFICE

It is understood on all sides that Senator Hale will leave the committee with reluctance, but it is certain that he will yield to what it is believed will be the almost general demand that he transfer the chair of his committee operations to the Committee on Appropriations where he has so long been Senator Allison's first Lieutenant. He will then be permitted if he so desires to retain his membership in the Naval Committee, and will probably resume second place on that committee, which he occupied previous to his promotion to the chairmanship in 1897. The Maine Senator will thus maintain an important relationship to naval affairs. Indeed he will doubtless continue to exert a conservative influence in the work of the committee having those affairs in charge, and his chairmanship of the Committee on Appropriations will not weaken that influence.

CONSERVATIVE MAN

In Senator Perkins will also be found a man of conservative tendencies. He is, however, a staunch supporter of all west coast interests and he may be depended on to use the committee to the fullest proper extent within his power as chairman to promote those interests and to protect the country from any possible hostile encroachments from the transpacific region. He will bring to the office the advantage of actual experience as a sailor as well as that of a man interested in shipping and will thus possess a technical knowledge of questions coming before the committee such as is seldom found in the Senate. Pacific Coast residents here regard his probable selection for this important post as most opportune in view of Oriental conditions.

FAITHFUL IN DISCHARGE OF PUBLIC DUTIES

As Sailor Boy Before the Mast Perkins Came to California in 1850.

(NORTHWEST ENTERPRISE LOS ANGELES, AUGUST 7)

The presence of Senator George C. Perkins in Los Angeles brings to mind the fact that he has served the State of California in high positions for a longer period than any other man in its history. Senator Perkins was a boy of nine and he came to California from poor sailor boy before the mast. In 1857 he went to Orville in Linn county to sit in the center of trade for the rich placer miners of that section and worked in a store, delivering goods about town and did whatever he was called upon to do.

STARTING BUSINESS

Soon he got into business on his own account and in a few years his firm was doing the largest business of any in that section. With increased means he engaged in the ship-ping business in San Francisco and the steamerings of Gondall Perkins & Co. or the Pacific Coast Steamship Company did a good share of the passenger and freight business along the California coast. Mr. Perkins served a term as State Senator from Butte county and in 1879 was elected to Congress on the Republican ticket and served until 1882. In the meantime with the growth of the State his steamship business was growing and was extended to Alaska and the Mexican coast.

APPOINTED SENATOR

In 1893 upon the death of Senator Hearn he was appointed United States Senator by Governor Markham and was subsequently elected and re-elected by the Legislature until the present time. Senator Perkins' personal acquaintance in the State is very extensive and particularly so in central and northern parts of California. He is not so well known to our more recent citizens and during the past few years he has not visited Southern California as frequently as formerly. The Senator is a man of pleasing personality and extremely conscientious in the discharge of his public duties.

He is a hard worker, and in his office in the Senate Annex in Washington he can be found every morning at 8 o'clock or shortly after and frequently he is there again in the evening, working with his secretaries.

HARD MAN TO BEAT

He never neglects to answer a letter promptly no matter who it is from and he is always kind and accommodating to Californians who call on him at Washington without regard to their party affiliations at home. The fact that he has done so many kind things for so many people at one time or another is considerable factor in the strength which he always shows in a political contest, and it is generally agreed among politicians that

UNITED STATES SENATOR GEORGE C. PERKINS

THOROUGHLY POSTED ON THE TARIFF ISSUE

Perkins Can Be Relied Upon to Look After the Interests of California if a New Bill Comes Up.

(MISSION)

The Republican party in its recent National Convention adopted a plan which morally binds it to tariff reform. The California merchant farmer and shipper will be vitally interested in many cases somewhat alarmed by this reformation in the tariff taking place. Nearly one hundred articles the production of which California is leading factor in on the present list of protected articles and as any extensive tariff change would in all probability affect many of these articles it will readily be seen that the proposed tariff legislation must be either a great benefit or on the other hand a detrimental effect to the State's volume of trade.

TARIFF REFORM

Although both the Republican and Democratic parties have adopted tariff reform as part and parcel of their respective policies it seems to us that the Republican party by its long career as upholders of the Nation's sources and the protective system is the proper party to make any alterations. If the tariff has outgrown usefulness and needs modifications some particulars let us have the forming done by the friends of this institution and not by those who have declared not only for its modification in the past but also for the complete nullification of a system in a man that could not but have brought disaster. In 1893 the Democrats for sweeping tariff reform but a Democratic president rose above his party and refused to sign the bill.

WESTERN INTERESTS

In 1907 when the Dingley tariff went into effect California was most ably represented in Washington by Hon. George C. Perkins, whose long career as a shipper of California products made him eminently fitted to protect Western interests in tariff legislation. California will be as vitally interested perhaps more so, in the revision of the tariff as she will be in any other question that comes before the next Congress. If we are to have tariff changes it is best that the tariff be changed at the hands of the Republican party and not by strangers. The next Republican president needs strong majorities in both houses and it seems to us that the services of George C. Perkins whose long years at Washington have given him an insight into the interests of National legislation and have lent him the influence that comes only with long years of patient endeavor must at this time prove of a most beneficial nature to his State.

A BUSINESS MAN

California knows to her cost that she is often lost sight of in national affairs and it is to her interest that she is represented by big influential men when changes are being contemplated that will uncared for may work great commercial and financial harm to the State.

Perkins is and was for many years a business man and knows the interests of his home State. The reforming of the tariff is a business proposition and it is essential to every voter who is interested in the welfare of his State that the Legislature be so overwhelmingly Republican that there will be no question of Perkins return to

PERKINS IS THE VITAL ISSUE AT PRESENT TIME

His Defeat Might Mean the Election of a Democrat to the United States Senate.

(SAN FRANCISCO GLOBE, AUGUST 11)

The old proverb "It's an ill wind that blows nobody good" is being verified every day. News comes from Washington that the death of Senator Allison regrettable as it was to every one in the United States means the promotion of Senator George C. Perkins of this State.

For twenty years Senator Allison was chairman of the Committee on Appropriations in the Senate while for many years the ranking member has been Senator Hale of Maine, chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs.

The ranking member of the latter committee is Senator Perkins. By the right of precedence and the rules of the Senate Senator Hale will be made chairman of the Committee on Appropriations to succeed the late Senator Allison while Senator Perkins will succeed Hale as chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs.

Senator Perkins will also be moved to the position of a second ranking member of the Committee on Appropriations he now being third on that committee.

IMPORTANT COMMITTEE

The position of chairman of the Committee on Naval Affairs of the Senate is one of the most important and influential in that body.

There are only two positions that excel it in importance and influence—the chairmanships of the committees on finance and appropriations.

The naval chairman practically holds the destiny of the United States Navy in the hollow of his hand.

In other words, he is something of a czar in his own domain. This was demonstrated at the last session of Congress when it was more through the influence of Senator Hale than anyone else that the President's program for four first class battleships to be built in the Republics of California want to elect a Democrat to the United States Senate, if they want to dis-

PERKINS IS A GOOD MAN FOR VALLEJO PEOPLE

(VALLEJO EVENING NEWS, JULY 22)

Perkins is one of the heavyweights at Washington and the people of California would be crazy to oust him for any reason. You have one new Senator in Washington now who is getting on in good shape and he (Hale) will make good but about Perkins there is no question.

Since that time he has had a long and successful record with him.

He will be in the Senate January 1 and to out Perkins to January 1 next two years he has to make room for other ambitious men.

SENATOR FLINT

Now Senator Hale is a pretty can kind of a man thorough well educated in this community and notwithstanding his admiring friendliness with the Southern Pacific people it is generally believed that in any question which the people were on one side and those of the Southern Pacific on the other, there would be no hesitancy on his part in standing with the other.

Perkins is one of the oldest and highest ranking members in the upper house and with the exception of Hale and Allison is about the strongest and best working man.

Perkins is not much in making speeches there he is too busy looking after the interests of his district. But he is on the steering committee which provides for the passage of all legislation through the Senate and what he wants he always gets.

His position on the naval and appropriation committees is one of vast importance to California.

KELP PERKINS

Like the little bunch of New England states they keep their Senators at the national capital until they die.

At nearly seventy his life is a constant refutation of the Oster theory and with a memory so well trained that it is said he can walk along his wharves in San Francisco and call the hundreds of dock hands there by name.

His memory on the needs of his constituents is equally unfailing.

What Senator Perkins told the assembled fruit men in Los Angeles last week should ring in the ears of all who believe that the price of pig iron and lemon oranges of tobacco trusts and similar industries should suffer the same horizontal cuts.

FIGHT FOR ORANGE

Sen. Perkins spoke of the fight for the orange of the Jamaica treaty and the Cuban victory.

By the former $1,000,000 was saved to the fruit men of Southern California, by the latter probably much more.

The value of the citrus fruit crop of California is about $30,000,000 annually of which about one million is consumed by our State leaving $29,000,000 to be disposed of to our sister States.

Where would that $29,000,000 be with a cheap boat haul to New York and Baltimore from foreign shores?

With the lemon industry it is the same. We have felt effects of the Sicilian crop this season in declining prices and there is no question in our minds that 70 cents a box does not represent a just differential between foreign lemons and those grown in this country and hauled by rail for long distances to market.

Perkins' speech was greeted with much applause and he was assured by the citrus league of warm States Senator from this State, a support for re-election as United

FRUIT MEN ARE FOR PERKINS

(CORONA INDEPENDENT, AUGUST 7)

Probably no other question is so pertinent in the minds of the fruit men of California as the somewhat problematical solution of the tariff question. The California Citrus Protection League under the able management of such men as Mr. Lyons of Redlands, Mr. Runsey of Riverside and Mr. Chapman of the celebrated Valencia district of Fullerton and with the willing support of many other fruit men including Mr. Call, Mr. Johnson and Mr. Hampton of Citrus, has set to work in a business-like way to counteract any ill-advised, unfriendly movement towards those products which outweigh all our celebrated mineral yields in financial values and make the heavily-laden cars to the east more welcome than all the over-rigged, lumber-burdened ones that work their way through sanguineous inlets that divide our great States.

But above the approaching storm, and the tariff realists will see plenty of it, perhaps create a little also to the sentinels of our protection, the staunch supporters of California's end of this commonwealth, our senators and congressmen. And among them none greater minds, no stauncher friends than George Perkins and Senator George Knight of Oakland and Los Angeles, respectively.

CARRY THE PALM

To Senator Perkins we carry the palm and offer the laurel. It is right kind of a man thoroughly well educated in this community and notwithstanding his admiring friendliness with the Southern Pacific people it is generally believed that in any question which the people were on one side and those of the Southern Pacific on the other, there would be no hesitancy on his part in standing with the other.

The New Daniel in Judgment.

Hardly anything could be more farcical than Judge Lawlor filing affidavits to prove to himself that he is entirely unprejudiced and unbiased in the case of Abe Ruef. In asserting his own impartiality he virtually charges Rabbis Nieto and Kaplan with perjury, and will cap the climax by deciding from the bench whether his word is better than that of the two clergymen. A greater burlesque can scarcely be imagined. It is a situation more in harmony with comic opera than a judicial proceeding.

By implication the affidavits made by the two rabbis relating what occurred at the notorious midnight conference presented Judge Lawlor in the light of acting in collusion with the private prosecution represented by Heney and Burns. If the reverend gentlemen told the truth Judge Lawlor was co-operating surreptitiously with Heney and Burns to achieve prearranged results. It follows that Judge Lawlor, granting credence to the rabbis, is not a fit person to preside at any of the graft trials and is certainly disqualified to sit in the case against Ruef. His honor was compelled to give the lie to the clergymen or forfeit his judicial reputation. Heney and Burns were compelled to do the same thing to rebut the broad implication of conspiracy. A powerful motive, therefore, prompted Judge Lawlor and the agents of the special prosecution.

With Drs. Nieto and Kaplan the case was entirely different. Apparently they had no motive to depart from the truth unless one can conceive that they willfully perjured themselves in an effort to shield a co-accused accused of heinous public offenses. Such an assumption would be extraordinary and unjust in view of their sacred calling and their high reputation as men of probity and honor. That Judge Lawlor should in his own defense pit his veracity against theirs is quite natural, but for him to decide who has told the truth is grotesquely absurd.

It must be borne in mind that the clergymen met Judges Lawlor and Dunne (separately) to get the assurances they declare in their affidavits were given. That was the object of the meeting. The subsequent proceedings show that they acted as if the assurances were given. For eight months they conducted themselves precisely as if they had received the assurances they were promised when they undertook to advise Ruef to tell the whole truth as a witness for the State. They told the truth as to the time and place of meeting, the object of the conference and the dramatic personae. The vital question as to what was said is the issue in dispute.

If the clergymen have not correctly related the purport of those remarkable midnight conferences how is then subsequent course to be explained? Why did they come forward months afterward and declare the agreement to which they had been made parties to have been violated? Whether this question can or cannot be satisfactorily answered, the fact remains that for Judge Lawlor to adjudicate the issue of his own veracity and judicial honor is a ridiculous travesty. Of course he will acquit himself of collusion and impropriety by declaring his statements to be true and the statements of Drs. Nieto and Kaplan to be false. Is not the situation convincing proof that the criminal cases on which this muddle of contradictions impinge should be transferred to some other judge for trial?

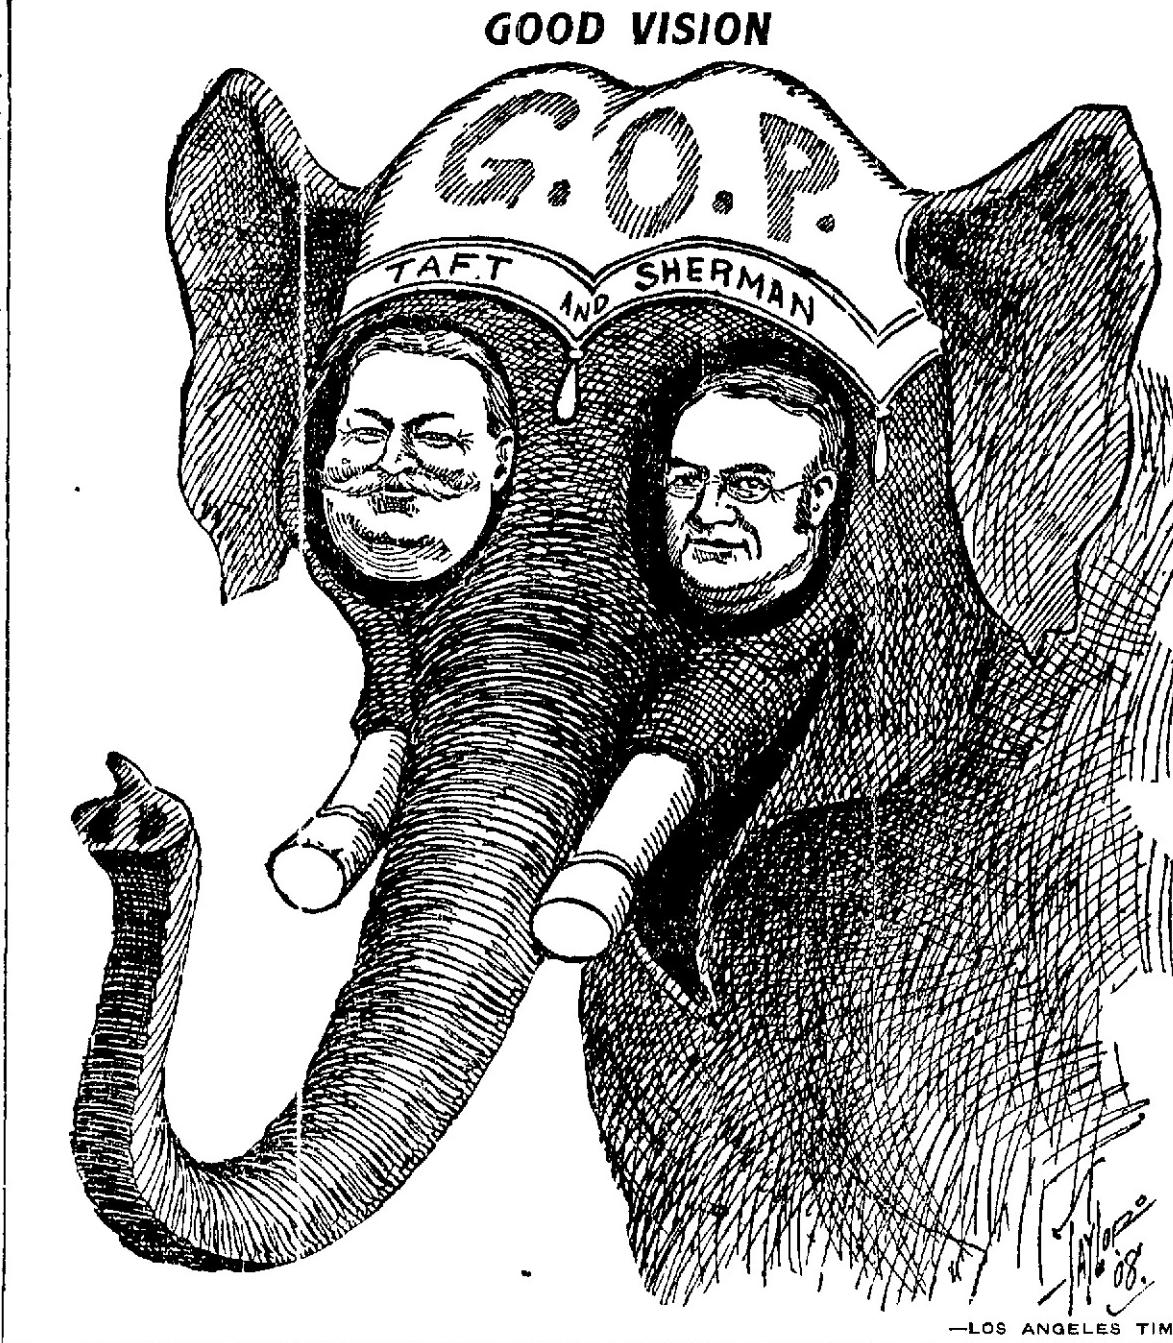

The Garbage Drift on the Beach.

In common decency the fouling of the beaches in the vicinity of the Golden Gate should be stopped—but all the same the blame should not be put on Oakland unjustly. If our city authorities are at fault in the matter it devolves upon them to have the garbage carried further out to sea. However, it is to be observed that the San Francisco papers began to make a row about Oakland's garbage being dumped outside the heads before any serious consequences could have resulted. They stirred up the fishermen to protest and charged every chance deposit of domestic refuse cast up on the shore to Oakland's account. This city may not be entirely guiltless in the matter, but investigation reveals that much of the complaint against Oakland is groundless. In direct violation of the law great quantities of refuse is dumped off the wharves of San Francisco and the ships in the harbor make a practice of throwing garbage overboard for it to drift where it may. It is also stated that the refuse from the military camp at Fort Baker is cast into the currents that ebb and flow along the shore in the vicinity of Lure Point. At least Oakland's garbage is carried miles out to sea beyond the heads before it is dumped. Some of it may drift back to shore but the quantity must be small and such of it that does come back to land can hardly be of a character to be unsanitary. Old cans and such stuff may come ashore, but they do no harm aside from the beach. From the San Francisco wharves quantities of decayed fruit and vegetables are cast into the bay to pollute the waters and create evil smells. The San Francisco papers make no outcry about this practice, but they go into fits if an old can bearing an Oakland label happens to drift in on the tide. It is the word Oakland that gives them a pain, not the can. If San Francisco be on the level the can gives them no concern. The people of Oakland are willing to do the right thing, but they object to being made a scapegoat for the sins of others.

The Riverside Press accepts as true the statement of the Call that the Sonoma county Republican convention refused to endorse Senator Perkins. The Press should have learned by this time to accept any statement made by the Call with a great deal of allowance. The Sonoma county convention did endorse Senator Perkins, but voted down a resolution pledging the legislative nominees to vote for him. No hostility to Senator Perkins was involved in this action, and as a matter of fact, the Assembly nominees in Sonoma are Perkins men. The resolution prepared by Western Pacific attorneys and adopted by the Berkeley Assembly convention pledging the nominee to vote against Senator Perkins was a device to convey the impression abroad that Senator Perkins is unpopular at home. As a matter of fact, a majority of the Berkeley Republicans are in favor of re-electing Senator Perkins and are indignant at the adoption of the Thelen resolution. Had it been announced prior to the primary that such an action was contemplated another set of delegates would have been elected to the convention. But all the trickery will avail nothing. Senator Perkins will be triumphantly re-elected.

LOS ANGELES TIMES

District Attorney Langdon was very wroth yesterday because one of the Burns sleuths he succeeded in quartering on the public payroll was arrested on complaint of a man he had been shadowing for days. The complainant is the Greek interpreter for the courts, and was not aware of the affiliations of the stranger who kept in pursuit of him. Becoming alarmed at being persistently followed, the interpreter called a policeman and had the detective arrested. Whereat Langdon waxed indignant. The incident sheds a ray of light on the methods of the private prosecution. That institution has been hounding citizens of all classes for nearly two years, furnishing unscrupulous newspapers with scandalous stories to the discredit of persons who incurred the enmity of Rudolph Spreckels and Francis J. Heney, and creating a reign of terror in the minds of timid people. In this way witnesses and jurors have been intimidated and the privacy of homes and clubs invaded by an espionage despicable in character and dishonorable in purpose.

RAILROAD COMMISSIONERS GOING TO RENO

PULLED MOTHER-IN-LAW'S HAIR AND SLAPPED HER HUSBAND'S FACE

HAS WIFE TAKEN TO JAIL

Admits Guilt but Declares She Was Justified in Using Her Muscles During Domestic Altercation.

Admitting that she had pulled her mother-in-law's hair and that she had struck her husband in the face while she was under arrest at the City Prison on a battery charge, Mrs. Jessie Mitchell of 1057 Seventh street, a tall, stately blonde, who was bridesmaid and sole witness at the wedding of Howard Metcalf and the beautiful Widow Bevens at San Rafael, appeared in the police court this morning before Judge Smith and was granted a continuance of her case until September 12. She was arrested on a charge of battery by her mother-in-law of 1312 Grove street, and this morning her husband, Arnold Mitchell, a clerk in the employ of the E. G. Arms Furniture Company, 512-514 Seventh street, also filed a complaint against her for charging battery. While admitting her guilt in discussing the case, she says she was aggravated into making the assaults and declares that her married life has been made miserable through too much mother-in-law.

MUCH FAMILY DISCARD.

According to both the accused woman and her husband, their married life has been anything but a bed of roses. In fact, Mitchell says that he has worn a crown of thorns while Mrs. Mitchell emphatically declares that her crown has been a regular barbed wire fence. Up to a few days ago the couple had lived apart, they having separated January 10, last, both signing an agreement of separation with the provision that Mitchell pay his wife $5 a week for her support. A reconciliation was finally effected and the couple took up furnished apartments at 1052 Seventh street.

MORE TROUBLE FOLLOWS.

Dissensions, however, started at once with renewed vigor. Quarrel upon quarrel followed. Mrs. Mitchell declares that on the night of her arrest, she had prepared supper for her husband and that when he failed to put in an appearance she went to the Grove street house, where Mrs. Rachel Mitchell, her mother-in-law lives, in search of her husband. Upon arrival at the house, she declares, she was ordered from the place and was assaulted. In self-defense, she declares, she entwined her hands in her mother-in-law's hair and gave it a vigorous wrenching. She then left the house and was soon after arrested and taken to the city prison. She secured her release on $20 bail. While in the captain's office pending the signing of necessary papers, she admits striking her husband in the face.

BAYS WIFE IS TERROR.

Mitchell was in a high state of excitement when he appeared at the Prosecuting Attorney's office when the morning to swear to the complaint against his wife. He says that she is a fervent atheist and caused him no end of trouble. He declares that she has a gun in her trunk fully loaded, and has threatened to use it on him unless he makes every provision for her. Mitchell also said that as soon as the case was disposed of in the police court, he would file a suit for divorce, alighting but his wife was over friendly with an Alameda man who had provided her with the pistol with which to terrorize him.

WHEN MARRIED?

Having made his wife godmother at the Holland-American plow, Earle turned to another wife, Julia Kuttner, who had been staying at a guest in the Earle home for a fortnight or more before the departure of Mrs. Earle.

ARTIST WEEPS.

Earle, with tears streaming from his eyes, pleaded guilty in court to the charge. He offered no word of explanation of his treatment of his wife, his "soul-mate" and "affinity." He refused to make an effort even to obtain bail and went to jail to await the action of the grand jury, which meets in October, claiming that he was well satisfied to fare as any one else would under like circumstances.

The charge of assault was made by Mrs. Inez Barry, an aunt of Mrs. Julia Kuttner Earle. It was alleged that on August 16, twelve days after the baby was born, Earle choked and beat his "affinity."

PROSECUTOR'S CHARGE.

He accused wife was in the Prosecuting Attorney's office when the husband cast the reflections on her character. She denied that she was not a true wife and said that her husband was only anxious to get rid of her because his mother wished him to.

"Well, you struck me in the face in the city prison and I will have you arrested for it," said Mitchell.

"Oh, you big baby," replied his wife. "How many times did you beat me?"

BOTH GET ADVICE.

Prosecuting Attorney Ezra Doreo advised him to drop the battery cases and go to the civil courts. Mrs. Mitchell promised to keep away from her husband and mother-in-law, but Mitchell refused, declaring that his wife would not let him alone. Mrs. Mitchell then secured the services of Assistant City Attorney O'Brien and left for the home of friends at 1553 Webster street, Alameda, where she will live, at least for the present.

CHURCH CAN GET IT.

"The church can have anything it wants and will try hard enough for it," he continued, "and if we wait a Sunday rest law, and the race track closed we can have it. Many people hesitate to settle here because this is the only State in the Union with no Sunday law."

In canvassing the situation Dr. Tufts said the vast majority favored the rest law and among the labor unions he looked for strong support.

At the close of his speech Dr. White asked in what way the church could aid in the work and all present pledged their support.

The next speaker of the evening was Dr. Burke, of the anti-saloon league.

EARLE PLEADS GUILTY TO BEATING HIS 'AFFINITY'

Thrashes 'Soul Mate' Twelve Days After Their Child Is Born

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—The most celebrated soul-making romance of modern times—that of Ferdinand Flinney Earle, the artist, and Julia Kuttner, the settlement worker—fell into the sordid police court class when

MRS. EARLE LEAVES.

When Earle was taken away by the officers yesterday Mrs. Earle and the ten-year-old automobile in waiting and were given to the home of friends in Central Valley, a few miles away. It is said that Mrs. Earle said she would never return to the house of her husband.

When officers took Earle away he never gave his wife a glance, but she followed him with her eyes until he was out of sight.

The arrest was a complete surprise to the villagers of Monroe, but there is no talk of violence toward him, as was the case when he sent away his wife last fall and took his "affinity" to live with him.

FUTURES AWAY.

Ferdinand Flinney Earle met his first wife away, a French woman, almost exactly a year ago. He was acting on his convictions in the matter, he said.

"Conditions over which we have lost all control have made it better that we should be apart," he said. Accordingly it was agreed between them that they should part and she sailed with the child in the early part of September.

Having made his wife godmother at the Holland-American plow, Earle turned to another wife, Julia Kuttner, who had been staying at a guest in the Earle home for a fortnight or more before the departure of Mrs. Earle.

PROSECUTOR'S CHARGE.

Earle's marriage with Julia Kuttner has never been published. After his first wife went to Paris last fall and secured a divorce in the court of the first instance, Earle and Julia Kuttner also went abroad. When they returned to this country in April it was announced that they had been married. They have since been living at Zemmerling, the country home of Earle, near Monroe. The baby was born on August 4.

CALIFORNIA IS THE MOST OPEN STATE IN THE UNION, HE DECLARES

Prohibitionist Says It Is Dumping Ground for Gambling Riff-Raff

"California is the most open State in the Union," declared Dr. G. L. Tufts Monday night, in his address before the Federated Churches, "and it is also sellers, gamblers and saloonkeepers who have been forced out of other communities."

Dr. Tuft's subject was "Sunday Rest," but he spoke of the other issues with which the national Reform Bazaar, which organization he represents, is dealing.

"What we must do is to call on each candidate personally and see how he stands on the liquor question. When we get our men in office we should support them and give the new ally all our power. Local option is what is needed in this country and we will get it if we only try hard enough, perhaps not this year nor the next or even the next but it is worth waiting for."

The anti-saloon league has been in existence for fifteen years and has been prominent in the Southern States for years. Dr. Burke came to this city about four months ago to conduct the legal work.

The following committees were appointed: From the Society of California Pioneers—Alfred E. Paul of San Francisco, Henry F. Williams of San Mateo, Wm. H. Hilton and Dr. James L. Clegg of Berkeley, Frances Doud, V. M. W. of Monterey. The Santa Clara County Pioneers to appoint five of their number.

THUGS CUT OUT EYE OF VICTIM

Five Tramps Arrested After a Brutal Attack and One Has Blood-Stained Knife On His Person.

OXNARD, Calif., Aug. 26.—Two tramps held up Milton S. Snook, a young workingman, on his way from Oxnard to Camarillo, Monday night, and sliced out one of his eyes with a knife. The attack was made in the dark and without warning.

Snook's assailants sprang on him from behind trees along the railroad track, and one struck out with a knife hitting the eye ball of Snook's left eye and partially cutting away his nose. The struggle that ensued resulted in the partial loss of a finger from Snook's left hand before he could free himself from the murderous attack.

BEATS OFF ASSAILANTS.

He is a powerful man, however, and shook off both assailants, making his escape to empty freight cars on the track. He slipped under the cars, blinded with blood. Another tramp guided him back to the Oxnard station.

A physician removed Snook's eyeball and dressed his wounds. There is danger that Snook may lose his other eye.

Marshall Kelly sent deputies out in time to surround the spot where the assault was made. In the morning they found eleven tramps in their net, on one of them was found a blood stained knife. Five men were arrested.

U. S. FLEET LEAPS FROM 3D STORY WINDOW

Last Day Sydney Gala On—School Children Present an Impressive Spectacle Before 40,000 People.

SYDNEY, Aug. 26.—The American battleship fleet is to leave tomorrow for Melbourne and India, and the entertainments that have kept the public of Sydney busy and happy for the past week. The public school demonstration took up a part of the morning and afternoon, and in the afternoon Admiral Sir Harry Rawson, the governor of New South Wales, gave a garden party to a large number of guests, including Admiral Sperry and the senior officers of the fleet.

ASH TOOK THEM OUT. Ash, the notorious criminal, was brought before the magistrate, and he admitted that he had no money to pay his fine, and he was given a short sentence. "They ought to settle it if you say so," said Ach, "but somehow it doesn't fit." There was a titter and Heney rose angrily.

"Maybe it doesn't settle it in the minds of those laugher's in the gallery," he shouted. "They ought to be put out."

Nobbs, being put out Ach expressed his willingness to meet Heney on the kind of argument he was then setting up, or in any other way he might suggest.

"Oh, I'll meet you in that kind of business," was Heney's retort.

"No, you won't meet me in any kind of business," said Ach.

He then complained that he was expected to answer Judge Lawler's affidavit offhand, while the prosecution had not yet produced any affidavit to answer.

Ronan, however, with the document Saturday night, Ach declared that he had waited in vain in his office until 6 o'clock.

"I can account for every minute of my time, even to the satisfaction of Mr. Heney," said Ach.

"I don't care anything about your time," cried Heney.

"I'm not talking to you," objected Ach.

"Now, you're talking about me,

"Mr. Heney, take your seat," ordered Judge Lawler.

Ach presented a written motion, signed by Ruf, in which it was stated that the affidavits filed by Heney and Burns were "in many material particular false and untrue," and he wanted an opportunity to cross-examine Heney, Burns and Langdon and to call Rabbi Jacob Ude and Bernard Kaplan to the stand. The Court said that it would not listen to any oral testimony, but would give Ach until noon today to file counter affidavits. A continuance until this morning was then taken.

TATTOO MARRIED WOMEN UNDER CHIN, HE SAYS

WARSAW, Ind., Aug. 26.—Rev. Arthur Ranier of New Haven, who started the women's assembly recently by declaring that there would be fewer divorces and infidelities if all married women were tattooed on the chin, has aroused one woman to action. Mrs. A. E. Coble of Sheldon, Whata, has written R. W. Nelson, postmaster of Warsaw, asking him to head off the minister from his intended visit to Washington in support of his scheme. She asks that President Roosevelt deny the minister an audience.

MELBOURNE READY.

At the stadium this afternoon I won the featherweight championship of the fleet. The boxer won by Tommy Burns in his fight with Bill Squires last Monday was paid today.

The Hon. T. Bent, premier of Victoria, has sent a telegram to Admiral Sperry assuring him of the whole-hearted support of the people of Australia in the defense of the fleet. The Australian government has agreed to give him a loan of £100,000 to cover his expenses.
